

The Enlightenment (First, Middle, and Third Watches of the Night)

Bodhi Suttas (Ud 1.1, 1.2, 1.3)

Bodhi Sutta (Ud 1.1) — First Watch of the Night

Evam me sutam— ekam samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya tīre bodhirukkhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho. Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sattāhaṃ ekapallaṅkena nisinno hoti vimuttisukhapaṭisaṃvedī. Atha kho bhagavā tassa sattāhassa accayena tamhā samādhimhā vuṭṭhahitvā rattiyaṃ paṭhamam yāmaṃ paṭiccasamuppādaṃ anulomaṃ sādhukaṃ manasākāsi:

Thus have I heard— At one time the Blessed One was staying in Uruvelā, on the bank of the river Nerañjarā, at the foot of the Bodhi tree, having newly attained full enlightenment. At that time, the Blessed One sat in a single posture for seven days, experiencing the bliss of liberation (vimuttisukha). Then, after those seven days, the Blessed One emerged from that concentration (samādhī), and during the first watch of the night, he reflected closely on Dependent Origination (paṭiccasamuppāda) in forward order:

“Iti imasmiṃ sati idaṃ hoti, imassuppādā idaṃ uppajjati, yadidaṃ— avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā, saṅkhārapaccayā viññāṇaṃ, viññāṇapaccayā nāmarūpaṃ, nāmarūpapaccayā saḷāyatanaṃ, saḷāyatanaṃpaccayā phasso, phassapaccayā vedanā, vedanāpaccayā taṇhā, taṇhāpaccayā upādānaṃ, upādānapaccayā bhavo, bhavapaccayā jāti, jātipaccayā jarāmaraṇaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā sambhavanti. Evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hotī”ti.

"When this is, that is; from the arising of this, that arises. That is to say: conditioned by ignorance (avijjā), mental reactions (saṅkhāras) arise; conditioned by mental reactions, consciousness (viññāṇa) arises; conditioned by consciousness, mind-and-matter (nāmarūpa) arises; conditioned by mind-and-matter, the six sense bases (saḷāyatana) arise; conditioned by the six sense bases, contact (phassa) arises; conditioned by contact, sensations (vedanās) arise; conditioned by sensations, craving (taṇhā) arises; conditioned by craving, clinging (upādāna) arises; conditioned by clinging, becoming (bhava) arises; conditioned by becoming, birth (jāti) arises; conditioned by birth, decay and death (jarāmaraṇa), sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief, and despair arise. Thus is the arising of this entire mass of suffering (dukkha)."

Atha kho bhagavā etamattamaṃ veditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

Paṭhamam.

Then, the Blessed One, understanding the significance of this, uttered this inspired utterance at that time: "When the laws of nature become clear indeed to the ardent (ātāpī), meditating Brahmin, then all his doubts vanish, since he understands each phenomenon with its cause."
(First)

Bodhi Sutta (Ud 1.2) — Middle Watch of the Night

Evam me sutaṃ— ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya tīre bodhirukkhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho. Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sattāhaṃ ekapallaṅkena nisinno hoti vimuttisukhapaṭisaṃvedī. Atha kho bhagavā tassa sattāhassa accayena tamhā samādhimhā vuṭṭhahitvā rattiyaṃ majjhimam yāmaṃ paṭiccasamuppādaṃ paṭilomaṃ sādhukaṃ manasākāsi:

Thus have I heard— At one time the Blessed One was staying in Uruvelā, on the bank of the river Nerañjarā, at the foot of the Bodhi tree, having newly attained full enlightenment. At that time, the Blessed One sat in a single posture for seven days, experiencing the bliss of liberation (vimuttisukha). Then, after those seven days, the Blessed One emerged from that concentration (samādhi), and during the middle watch of the night, he reflected closely on Dependent Origination (paṭiccasamuppāda) in reverse order:

“Iti imasmiṃ asati idaṃ na hoti, imassa nirodhā idaṃ nirujjhati, yadidaṃ—
avijjānirodhā saṅkhāranirodho, saṅkhāranirodhā viññāṇanirodho, viññāṇanirodhā nāmarūpanirodho, nāmarūpanirodhā saḷāyatanirodho, saḷāyatanirodhā phassanirodho, phassanirodhā vedanānirodho, vedanānirodhā taṇhānirodho, taṇhānirodhā upādānanirodho, upādānanirodhā bhavanirodho, bhavanirodhā jātinirodho, jātinirodhā jarāmaraṇaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā nirujjhanti. Evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa nirodho hotī”ti.

"When this is not, that is not; from the cessation of this, that ceases. That is to say: with the cessation of ignorance (avijjā), mental reactions (saṅkhāras) cease; with the cessation of mental reactions, consciousness (viññāṇa) ceases; with the cessation of consciousness, mind-and-matter (nāmarūpa) ceases; with the cessation of mind-and-matter, the six sense bases (saḷāyatana) cease; with the cessation of the six sense bases, contact (phassa) ceases; with the cessation of contact, sensations (vedanās) cease; with the cessation of sensations, craving (taṇhā) ceases; with the cessation of craving, clinging (upādāna) ceases; with the cessation of clinging, becoming (bhava) ceases; with the cessation of becoming, birth (jāti) ceases; with the cessation of birth, decay and death (jarāmaraṇa), sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief, and despair cease. Thus is the cessation of this entire mass of suffering (dukkha)."

Atha kho bhagavā etamatthaṃ veditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

"Yadā have pātubhavanti dhammā, Ātāpino jhāyato brāhmaṇassa; Athassa kaṅkhā vapayanti sabbā, Yato khayāṃ paccayānaṃ avedī"ti.

Dutiyaṃ.

Then, the Blessed One, understanding the significance of this, uttered this inspired utterance at that time: "When the laws of nature become clear indeed to the ardent (ātāpī), meditating Brahmin, then all his doubts vanish, since he has realized the ending of all causes." (Second)

Bodhi Sutta (Ud 1.3) — Third Watch of the Night

Evam me sutaṃ— ekaṃ samayaṃ bhagavā uruvelāyaṃ viharati najjā nerañjarāya tīre bodhirukkhamūle paṭhamābhisambuddho. Tena kho pana samayena bhagavā sattāhaṃ ekapallaṅkena nisinno hoti vimuttisukhapaṭisaṃvedī. Atha kho bhagavā tassa sattāhassa accayena tamhā samādhimhā vuṭṭhahitvā rattiyā pacchimaṃ yāmaṃ paṭiccasamuppādaṃ anulomapaṭilomaṃ sādhukaṃ manasākāsi:

Thus have I heard— At one time the Blessed One was staying in Uruvelā, on the bank of the river Nerañjarā, at the foot of the Bodhi tree, having newly attained full enlightenment. At that time, the Blessed One sat in a single posture for seven days, experiencing the bliss of liberation (vimuttisukha). Then, after those seven days, the Blessed One emerged from that concentration (samādhī), and during the third watch of the night, he reflected closely on Dependent Origination (paṭiccasamuppāda) in forward and reverse order:

"Iti imasmiṃ sati idaṃ hoti, imassuppādā idaṃ uppajjati, imasmiṃ asati idaṃ na hoti, imassa nirodhā idaṃ nirujjhati; yadidaṃ— avijjāpaccayā saṅkhārā, saṅkhārapaccayā viññāṇaṃ, viññāṇapaccayā nāmarūpaṃ, nāmarūpapaccayā saḷāyatanaṃ, saḷāyatanapaccayā phasso, phassapaccayā vedanā, vedanāpaccayā taṇhā, taṇhāpaccayā upādānaṃ, upādānapaccayā bhavo, bhavapaccayā jāti, jātipaccayā jarāmaraṇaṃ sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā sambhavanti. Evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa samudayo hoti.

"When this is, that is; from the arising of this, that arises. When this is not, that is not; from the cessation of this, that ceases. That is to say: conditioned by ignorance (avijjā), mental reactions (saṅkhāras) arise; conditioned by mental reactions, consciousness (viññāṇa) arises; conditioned by consciousness, mind-and-matter (nāmarūpa) arises; conditioned by mind-and-matter, the six sense bases (saḷāyatana) arise; conditioned by the six sense bases, contact (phassa) arises; conditioned by contact, sensations (vedanās) arise; conditioned by sensations, craving (taṇhā) arises; conditioned by craving, clinging (upādāna) arises; conditioned by clinging, becoming (bhava) arises; conditioned by becoming, birth (jāti) arises; conditioned by birth, decay and death (jarāmaraṇa), sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief, and despair arise. Thus is the arising of this entire mass of suffering (dukkha).

Avijjāya tveva asesavirāganirodhā saṅkhāranirodho, saṅkhāranirodhā viññāṇanirodho, viññāṇanirodhā nāmarūpanirodho, nāmarūpanirodhā saḷāyatananirodho, saḷāyatananirodhā phassanirodho, phassanirodhā vedanānirodho, vedanānirodhā taṇhānirodho, taṇhānirodhā upādānanirodho, upādānanirodhā bhavanirodho, bhavanirodhā jātinirodho, jātinirodhā jarāmarañam sokaparidevadukkhadomanassupāyāsā nirujjhanti. Evametassa kevalassa dukkhakkhandhassa nirodho hotī”ti.

But with the complete fading away and cessation of ignorance (avijjā), mental reactions (saṅkhāras) cease; with the cessation of mental reactions, consciousness (viññāṇa) ceases; with the cessation of consciousness, mind-and-matter (nāmarūpa) ceases; with the cessation of mind-and-matter, the six sense bases (saḷāyatana) cease; with the cessation of the six sense bases, contact (phassa) ceases; with the cessation of contact, sensations (vedanās) cease; with the cessation of sensations, craving (taṇhā) ceases; with the cessation of craving, clinging (upādāna) ceases; with the cessation of clinging, becoming (bhava) ceases; with the cessation of becoming, birth (jāti) ceases; with the cessation of birth, decay and death (jarāmaraṇa), sorrow, lamentation, pain, grief, and despair cease. Thus is the cessation of this entire mass of suffering (dukkha)."

Atha kho bhagavā etamattamaṃ viditvā tāyaṃ velāyaṃ imaṃ udānaṃ udānesi:

“Yadā have pātubhavanti dhammā, Ātāpino jhāyato brāhmaṇassa; Vidhūpayamaṃ tiṭṭhati mārasenaṃ, Sūriyova obhāsayamantalikkhaṃ”ti.

Tatiyaṃ.

Then, the Blessed One, understanding the significance of this, uttered this inspired utterance at that time: "When the laws of nature become clear indeed to the ardent (ātāpī), meditating Brahmin, he stands dispelling the army of Māra, like the sun illuminating the sky." (Third)

anulomapaṭiloma	anulomapaṭiloma	forward and reverse order	Bodhi Sutta	The dual contemplation of dependent origination—first tracing how suffering arises (forward) and then how it is dismantled (reverse).
mārasena	mārasena	army of Māra	Bodhi Sutta	The personification of defilements, passions, and mental impurities that attempt to bind the mind to suffering.

Translator Notes

1. Intimate Teacher-to-Student Voice: The English translation adopts the direct, experiential tone of the S.N. Goenka Vipassana tradition. We use simple, clear, and practical terms to connect with a meditator's daily practice, avoiding dry scholastic or formal academic English.
2. Mind-and-Matter vs. Name-and-Form: Translated nāmarūpa as "mind-and-matter" (rather than "name-and-form") to align with Goenkaji's experiential framing of the physical and mental processes and how they interact.
3. Sensations for Vedanā: In accordance with the Goenka anchor guidelines, vedanā is rendered strictly as "sensations" (not "feelings") to emphasize the bodily, somatic basis of reactivity in the dependent origination chain.

4. Brahmin Register: Translated brāhmaṇa as "Brahmin" but with the context of a purified, meditating seeker, in line with the tradition's universal (non-sectarian) redefinition of the term.
5. Reverse Order (Paṭiloma) and Cessation (Nirodha): In the second watch of the night, the Buddha reflected on the cessation aspect of dependent origination (paṭiloma), showing how dismantling the root cause (ignorance) systematically resolves the entire chain of suffering. We use "cessation" (nirodha) to represent active dismantling rather than passive termination.
6. Ending of Causes (Khayaṃ paccayānaṃ): Translated as "the ending of all causes" to reflect the experiential realization of how the causal conditions for suffering are completely extinguished and broken.
7. Forward and Reverse Order (Anulomapaṭiloma): In the final watch of the night, the Buddha integrated both aspects of dependent origination, observing both the arising (anuloma) and the cessation (paṭiloma) of the entire chain of suffering.
8. The Army of Māra (Mārasena): The personification of defilements (craving, aversion, ignorance, fear). Dispelling Māra's army represents the total eradication of mental impurities.
9. Simile of the Sun (Sūriya): The dispelling of defilements is compared to the sun breaking through and lighting up the sky, representing the sudden and complete illumination of wisdom over ignorance.
